This proposed increase should not be applied to residences that are more than 10 years old. Given the rate of new residential building in the city, applying this increase to the new home developments is a more equitable solution. Add it to the cost of installation of services to the new accounts in new developments which is likely where much of the costs are being incurred for delivery. The increase, if applied to my account puts delivery almost the same cost as my usage. Nothing has changed in my service delivery.
