There is no reason to raise rates at a time when inflation, cost of living, fuel is at all time highs causing everyday citizens to be struggling to make ends meet. Instead of raising rates, how about you cut the salary of Sr. executives by 5-10% across the board. Pretty sure you can make the costs needed to support infrastructure growth or whatever 'rationale' you want us to believe to raise costs. Plus they'll be charged less personal tax.
